The Non-Healthcare Staff You Need to Support Front Line Services

The non-medical staff working behind the front line play a pivotal role in supporting your organisation in meeting the challenges of modern healthcare.

From the caterers who provide quality, healthy hospital food, to the housekeeping staff who ensure clean and sterile environments and the porters who transfer patients between departments, they're vital to delivering the best patient experiences and keeping the front line running smoothly.

As experts in healthcare staffing, we know the challenges you face recruiting for these roles in a continually evolving workplace.

Our temporary support staffing solutions give you the agility and flexibility you need when rapid action is required. We're also here to provide you with added capability during times of growth or change.

We have an extensive pool of job candidates looking for temporary roles as multi-task attendants in cleaning, housekeeping, laundry, portering and general duties, as well as chefs, hygiene and household staff, drivers, maintenance personnel and more.

We have a partnership approach that's built around your requirements. We work hard to present candidates who are a good match for your organisation's practical requirements and unique culture. At the same time, our scale means we can help you fill roles rapidly and cost-effectively.

Our experienced team frees up your in-house resource by taking care of all the administrative requirements, from pre-employment screening and compliance to onboarding, payroll management and post-placement follow-up.

We support more than 120+ services nationally from large acute to community healthcare settings in the public, private and not-for-profit sectors in Ireland.
